When you have to start over...

We recently discovered that our multiple building project difficulties were actually the result of a dishonest architect. After figuring things out, we are finally on the right track but are back to the beginning. The plans for the building are being re-done and adjustments are being made before once again filing for a building permit. This process has already been long and extremely disappointing, but we are encouraged to know God is still on the throne and His people are praying.

Extra room for growth

Meanwhile the city has given us some much needed extra space to use for our Sunday services. We now have access to another building with a larger room for our congregation to meet in. We also have a spare space for the children and will soon have room for a small nursery. Once the renovations are completed, we will have a little room for our teens as well. We look forward to the day we will have our very own building of course. In the meantime, we are grateful for this space that has been made available to us.

Drought!

This summer brought extreme high temperatures across most of France with little to no rain. Rivers, creeks, and ponds dried up across several European countries with restrictions on water usage in many places. The severe lack of water made us think of France's spiritual drought. There is a serious need for the Gospel here, where most don't understand that Jesus is the Living Water they desperately need.

“Withal praying also for us, that God would open unto us a door of utterance, to speak the mystery of Christ, ...That (we) may make it manifest, as (we) ought to speak.”
